The Aerial Adventure Forest is essentially an obstacle course in the trees and includes climbing, zip lines and combinations of the challenge bridges and zip lines. The Adventure Park at Sandy Spring has 13 trails, which are color-coded, with purple — the easiest — being a 12- to 20-foot-high course, and double black diamond — the most difficult — being 65 feet in the air. It is the largest aerial climbing course in the US. The Labyrinth, which opened in 2013, is an innovative pole-based climbing structure offering many of the same challenges as the Aerial Adventure Forest, but scaled to be suitable for younger climbers, ages 5-10.
